

Apple Watch

Notification Center

Here's how to quickly access your notifications using VoiceOver on your Apple Watch.

With a few simple gestures, you can check text messages, voicemails, missed calls, and more—right on your wrist. Give it a try!

1. To begin, open the Accessibility settings in the Apple Watch app on your iPhone and make sure the VoiceOver setting is turned on.

Accessing Notifications

2. To access Notifications, swipe down your watch face using two fingers. VoiceOver will read your most recent notification.

Tip: To open the app for any notification, double tap with one finger after it's read.

Moving Through Notifications

3. To move through the custom actions for a notification, swipe up or down with one finger. VoiceOver announces the actions as you swipe.

4. Double tap to perform the action:
 - Manage: Turn off notifications for the app or have notifications delivered quietly.
 - Clear: Clear the current notification from your list.
 - Activate: Open the app. This is the default action.
5. Swipe left to move through your additional notifications.
6. To mute a notification, single tap with two fingers.

Tip: When you hear “Clear All,” you’ve reached the end of your notifications.
7. To clear all your notifications and return to your watch face, double tap when you hear “Clear All.”
8. If you don’t want to clear your notifications, press the Digital Crown—the large button on the right side of your watch—to close your notifications and return to your watch face.

Now you have a handy way to check and manage your notifications on your Apple Watch. Check out the other workshops in this series to learn even more.
